ALLIES WIN NEW GROUND NEAR SOMME

BRITISH AND FRENCH CLAIM IMPORTANT ADVANCE IN RECENT FIGHTING ON WEST FRONT.

EAST FRONT ACTIVITY

Rumanian Army Has Penetrated 48 Miles into Hungary, Says Paris Correspondent—Quiet in Macedonia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Sept. 5.—British troops in the battles last night in the region of the Somme in France, increased their gain in the neighborhood of Guise, said today's official statement.

The British forces pushed forward to 1,500 yards east of Guise, secured a hold on Leuval wood. Further south a strong German system of defense on a front of 3,000 yards around Faisleau farm was captured.

Fighting on the Somme since Sept. 3, has resulted in the capture by the British of the entire remaining German second line defenses on the battle front from Mouquet Farm to the junction of the British and French line.

French Take Villages.

Paris, Sept. 5.—The capture of Fricourt and Chilly by the French yesterday makes a total of twenty-nine villages won since the start of the offensive on the Somme front. The positions wrested from the Germans yesterday were powerfully organized.

At Barieux, one of the strongest positions on this front, repeated direct attacks on were unsuccessful and the French finally resorted to a turning movement, attacking to the southwest.

Germans Concede Loss.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—The great battle on the Somme front in France continues, says the official statement issued today. South of the river the Germans are defending themselves on a front eighteen miles wide, which the entente allies are storming. The loss of the village of Chilly by the Germans is conceded.

Vigorous Counter Attacks.

Paris, Sept. 5.—A vigorous counter attack was made by the Germans north of the Somme last night in an effort to regain the ground taken in the eve of the French. The war office announced today that the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

Slavs Capture 4,514.

Petrograd, Sept. 5.—In the direction of Vladivostok and Sevastopol, Russian troops in battles lasting from Tuesday to Saturday, captured 1,500 Teuton officers and 4,514 men. They also took six cannon, thirty-five machine guns and four mortars. This information was in today's Russian official statement.

Rumanians Advance 48 Miles.

Paris, Sept. 5.—The advance of the Rumanian troops in the first five days of their campaign was considerable, and at some points as much as twenty kilometers (about 48 miles) says a dispatch from Urgent, under date of Saturday, to the Petit Parisien. The forward march however, now has been somewhat slackened because of the difficulty of sending re-victualing convoys. Although the ground on the eastern frontier was favorable to the Rumanians, the correspondents said they were successful in their dash across the river, and now occupy the valley. Rumania's declaration of war, the dispatch adds, was so unexpected by Austria that only a few troops of the dual monarchy were on the Rumanian frontier, and these were not on guard when hostilities were begun. Half an hour before war was declared, Hungarian officers were driving with Rumanians at a frontier rail station. Soon after, a Rumanian outpost entered the station, took the officers as prisoners and then captured quantities of materials. The Rumanian offensive was so sudden that the Austrians had not time to blow up bridges nor tunnels.

Quiet in Macedonia.

Comparative quiet still prevails on the Macedonian front, the official French report of today says. There were no significant movements yesterday, although the artillery was fairly active and various enterprises were undertaken by patrols. Germany Invading Rumania.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—The German and Bulgarian army which is invading eastern Rumania, has carried by surprise the fortified advance position at the bridgehead of Turtuk, the war office says. The Bulgarians have taken the town of Dobrich.

Former German Exchange Professor Honored by Belgian After Meeting Death in Air Battle.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Sept. 5.—Prof. Siebert, several years ago an exchange professor in the United States, was killed recently in an aerial action over the western front. The following day the Belgian act of death dropped a bouquet of roses with the inscription, "Belgian aviator's homage to a foe defeated in an aerial battle."

CHINA-JAPAN CRISIS MAY PROVE SERIOUS

Close Watch Being Kept In Diplomatic Circles for Developments in Orient.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 5.—Close watch is being maintained by diplomatic circles here over the newly threatened crisis between Japan and China, growing out of the recent clash of the two nation's troops at Cheng-Chia. Considerable fear is felt that the rights of the United States in China may be affected.

LLOYD GEORGE, ENGLAND'S NEW WAR SECRETARY, REVIEWS CANADIAN TROOPS

Lloyd George reviewing troops at Bramahott.

Lloyd George, England's new secretary of war, recently reviewed a Canadian division at Bramahott in company with Gen. Sir Sam Hughes. After the review Lloyd George spoke to the men for some while, paying tribute to Canada's great help to England in the war. "I am here," he said, "as a Britisher to thank Canada for her contribution to the war."

KING HONORS AVIATOR FOR ZEPPELIN BATTLE

Victoria Cross to Air Navigator Who Brought Down German Craft in Flight Over London.

London, Sept. 5.—King George today awarded the Victoria Cross to Lieutenant William L. Robinson for bringing down the royal flying corps for bringing down a Zeppelin while the airship was approaching London Saturday night.

The British official press bureau said the cross was awarded to Robinson for the most conspicuous bravery, as Robinson attacked the Zeppelin under circumstances of great danger and sent it crashing to the ground. The work is believed to have been done by an amateur. Manager Roy Cummings had previously received about $1,000, received for Saturday and Sunday, to another place.

The explosion was heard by a number of people, but was attributed to a fire of an automobile and no report made to the police until late to day.

JEFFERSON MAN TOOK POISON IN CHICAGO

Removed to Hospital Today After He Confesses to Police He Tried To End Life.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Joseph J. Hannis of Jefferson, Wis., who was found in distress in his hotel room early today told the police he had taken poison. He was removed to a hospital.

The prince's complete confidence expressed the hope of a more friendly attitude among neutrals for Germany.

Prince Leopold complimented the bravery with which the Russian soldier drove them selves forward again and again to almost certain death.

After the interview with the prince, which he apparently kept as free as possible from political and military questions, his chief of staff, Colonel Hoffman, took up the eastern situation in more detail and humorously assured the correspondents they might consider they were dealing with "the firm of Leopold, Hoffman & Company."

The prince was replying to a question regarding the effect of Rumania's action. He dropped the friendly and action. He dropped the friendly and almost benevolent attitude he had played throughout the interview the first granted to a correspondent since his promotion to the command formerly held by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg. His eyes snapped and his voice became hard and sharp.

In a moment, however, he dropped this topic and returned to questioning this visitor as to the trip they had just completed along the Russo-German front near Branovich, a highly important strategic point.

The prince's complete confidence that Rumania would be defeated for the climax to the helpless declaration of war to the Russian soldiers, each a railroad center at which roads from east, west, north and south meet. For possession of these points the Russians have made the most desperate efforts since last March, efforts so great in fact that the Germans believe it entirely possible that the Russian losses in the last six months have exceeded one million.

Although the Germans are defending a front of about 350 miles between Riga and Tarnopol, it is almost a matter of indifference to them, Colonel Hoffman declared, where the Russians choose to make their next attack.

Prince Leopold did not look his seventy odd years when he received the small group of visitors at his headquarters. He greeted each one with a firm handshake, made minute inquiries regarding the newspaper represented by each and with a smile told the two Americans the United States was delivering too much ammunition to Germany's opponents. RUSSO-JAP TREATY WILL NOT DISTURB EASTERN SITUATION

Japanese Government Assures United States That Open Door Policy Will Be Maintained.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokyo, Sept. 5.—Japan has officially assured the United States that the alliance recently made by Russia and Japan will not affect the status quo in the far east.

The Russo-Japanese convention was signed at Petrograd July 3. The Japanese foreign office is reply to a question from the Associated Press, after the treaty had been signed, as to what effect the alliance would have upon the open door and the integrity of China, stated.

The convention is effectually an emphasis upon the extension of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, based upon the territorial integrity of China, whose open door and integrity are not in danger. American trade and interests are in no wise affected.

The foreign office denied affirmation in Japanese newspapers that the convention contained secret clauses.

On August 4, Reuter's Telegram, a company, announced it had learned in London after conclusion of the Russo-Japanese convention, a separate agreement was reached under which Russia sold to Japan the southern half of the Hsin-Ching-Shung railway, in Manchuria. The additional agreement, it was said, also recognized Japan's right to the Sungari River, between Kirin and Petuna, thus settling a question pending since the Portsmouth treaty.

LARGER VOTE THAN TWO YEARS AGO AT PRIMARY ELECTION

Total, However, Is Below Vote at One O'clock in 1912 and at Various Municipal Primaries.

If other cities in the state are showing the same lack of interest as was displayed by voters in Janesville up to one o'clock today, the total vote in the state will be much lighter than in past years.

The vote at one o'clock was heavier than two years ago, at the same time still it was below the vote of 1912, and also far below the votes at various municipal primaries held recently.

The First Ward showed a total of 196 at one o'clock as against 88 two years ago; the Second had 146 as to 89 in 1914; the Third was 274, compared to 191; the Fourth had 182 to 134 in 1912, and the Fifth was 65 to 69, two years ago.

The Second shipment of pulp arrived in the steamer Cadillac today for Rhinelander and Wausau paper manufacturers. Five or six more boat loads are expected here before navigation closes.

The high price of news print paper, the shortage of ground pulps in Wisconsin, an absence of some days, and at a given signal chilled the night with cold authority of their demand that the suspect surrender himself before drastic measures were resorted to.

At this critical moment, said Gustavus H. Bowery himself to the astonished multitude, it was Harry Fogerty, general manager of Northern Paper Mills of this city.

The high price of news print paper, the shortage of ground pulps in Wisconsin, an absence of low water, and the demand for paper of all kinds, are given as reasons for bringing ground wood from Laborador to Green Bay to be distributed to state paper mills.

Six years ago nine hundred tons of news print paper were manufactured in Wisconsin monthly, now the supply is about 100 tons.

Cargo of Canadian Wood Pulp at Green Bay for Wausau and Rhinelander Mills Shows Fact.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 5.—Shipments of ground wood pulp from the gulf of St. Lawrence to Green Bay for distribution to the paper mills of the state, is an indication that Wisconsin mills intend going back into the manufacture of news print paper, according to John C. Fogerty, general manager of Northern Paper Mills of this city.

The posse formed aordon about the house in which the wretch was quietly arranging his affairs after an absence of some days, and at a given signal chilled the night with cold authority of their demand that the suspect surrender himself before drastic measures were resorted to.

New York, Sept. 5.—Uncle Sam's submarine hunters are going into action today. The naval protectors against underwater warfare, consisting of motor boats of great speed, manned by volunteer seamen who own the boats, will have their first real test since their organization, when they are put through their paces under the eyes of the government officers.

Maneuvers, which will end Sept. 12 will be held off Boston, New York, and the Delaware capes. The senior naval officer present at each point will be in charge.

Probably the most interesting feature of the cruise will come on the third day and will consist of maneuvers in sweeping communications, defense of shipping and protection of harbors from attacks by submarines. The will leave their respective bases early in the morning and will proceed in the district to which they have been assigned to search for mines. When a mine is located it will be removed and the search will proceed until all have been located and loaded onto the boats.

On the fourth day the patrol boats will assemble with the battleships which have been assigned to take part in the maneuvers, and will form a screen to protect the big vessels from attacks by submarines.

This part of the United States fleet is being recognized as one of the most important since the advent of the submarine as a formidable weapon of offense in the European war. Recently trials were held with the United States patrol boats and they succeeded in theoretically destroying a submarine after it had submerged in plain view of the spectators.

Numerous naval maneuvers have been ordered to the government in case of war and many of these will be seen in the maneuvers which begin today.

DUEL BETWEEN BRITISHER WITH BAYONET AND GERMAN WITH A SWORD CANE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Sept. 5.—The story of a freak duel on the battlefield—a Britisher and German officer, fighting with a sword cane and a bayonet was told on a British hospital ship, enroute from France, to passengers arriving here today.

The British officer told the story. He was on his way home to recover from a wounded hand, a thrust from the sword cane. He brought the cane and the German officer's helmet with him.

"He got me first," the officer said.

"You see where he punctured my left hand. I had lost my revolver long before I picked up a German rifle and bayonet. You would have laughed to have seen the duel. It was like a naval and military tournament show-sword versus bayonet."

"I think he was a swordsman. Lots of these Germans are, you know. If so, however, I expect my ignorance of sword fighting put him off his game. I simply rushed him and got him clean through the chest."

Tokyo, Sept. 5.—Ensign Fitz Hugh Green, U. S. N., who accompanied Donald D. MacMillan in 1913 on his expedition in search of "Crocker Land," reached here today on the Danish steamship United States from Copenhagen. He confirmed the previous report that Crocker Land does not exist.

The Russo-Japanese convention was signed at Petrograd July 3. The Japanese foreign office is reply to a question from the Associated Press, after the treaty had been signed, as to what effect the alliance would have upon the open door and the integrity of China, stated.

HIDDEN PUZZLE

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL HAS ENROLLMENT OF NEAR FIVE HUNDRED

Large Attendance Taxes Seating Capacity of Assembly Room—Grade and Continuation Schools Open.

Boys and girls of Janesville this morning started school duties for the coming year. The first day was devoted to the arranging of programs for classes and to attending the thousand and one details that arise in connection with the opening of school, but the actual work for the year will start tomorrow in all of the schools of the city.

Yesterday afternoon Superintendent Faust and Principal Sheaford of the high school met the entire teaching force and outlined the work for the year, explained the educational ideals behind the work in this city, and introduced the new teacher.

The enrollment of the high school was 455. During the course of the year quite a number will enter, so that undoubtedly the attendance will average about five hundred. The numbers enrolled in the various grade schools had not been reported to the office of the superintendent.

Yesterday the high school purchased a new edition of the American Encyclopedia for the use of the students. The old edition, owned by the school, was traded in to secure the up-to-date reference books which will be helpful to the students and faculty alike.

At a meeting of the school board last evening at the high school the appointments were authorized of Miss Eleanor Wilbur of Milton to the seventh grade position at the Jefferson school and the transfer of Miss Devine from the seventh grade of the Lincoln school to the seventh grade of the Lincoln school.

The continuation school started today on what appears to be the most successful year of its existence so far as numbers are concerned. The all-day industrial students, who are those in attendance for six hours each day, number sixty-five, many more than the school has ever had before. It is probably more ample provision will have to be made for this class of students.

Mr. Hill, superintendent of the school, wished to apologize to the employers of juveniles between the ages of 14 and 17, who are responsible for the attendance of these individuals at the continuation school, that only the Wednesday pupils should be sent to-morrow. Owing to the holiday on Monday, the school week will not start until Wednesday. All pupils should not be sent tomorrow, but the Tuesday and Monday students should be held until those days of next week.

The boys' department of the all-day industrial class is full now, but there is room for more girls in that class of students. It is the earnest wish of the officials that girls may become interested in the work there.

TOBACCO GROWERS ADVISED BY DEALER

Prominent Dealer Gives Advice to Growers As to Handling of This Year's Crop.

From a prominent tobacco dealer of Rock county comes the following suggestion to growers in the vicinity in regard to the tobacco crop.

Now that practically all the tobacco has been sold and at prices far in advance of what it was expected to bring a few days ago, in justice to the smokers the growers should come forward now and do what they can to bring the standard of the Wisconsin tobacco.

This year's prices depend to a considerable extent on the manner in which the 1916 crop is handled. If this is poor buyers will not pay the large prices next year and take the chances connected with this.

Sucker your tobacco as often as possible; three times is the proper number. Every time you do this you increase the nicotine, so the labor will be paid for many times over, and the packers will also be given a better grade of tobacco. It will also ripen sooner.

Do not shear your tobacco green, but wait until it is properly ripened. If you do not know when tobacco is ripe ask someone who does. Green tobacco does not cure properly in the shed, and even if it does not rot before drying, it is likely to rot in the shed after being packed.

The grower will be well paid this year for his crop. He can afford to handle his tobacco carefully in the field and in the shed, and at the same time establish a good reputation as a grower among the smokers.

As there is no full sun until the last part of the month, there will be plenty of time to properly shed the crop without any fear of frost.

CANNOT MELT GOLD COIN FOR MUNITIONS WORKERS' JEWELS

[APPEAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Sept. 5.—England's famous defense of the real act that elastic piece of legislation framed by parliament at the beginning of the war again has been stretched. This latest stretch prohibits the melting down of gold coins.

This measure became necessary, it was learned today, because of the enormous waste of the nation's gold reserves caused by the reduction of gold coins for the manufacture of jewelry for which the exceptionally high wages of war workers have created an extensive demand.

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.

London, Sept. 5.—England's famous defense of the real act that elastic piece of legislation framed by parliament at the beginning of the war again has been stretched. This latest stretch prohibits the melting down of gold coins.

This measure became necessary, it was learned today, because of the enormous waste of the nation's gold reserves caused by the reduction of gold coins for the manufacture of jewelry for which the exceptionally high wages of war workers have created an extensive demand.

Q.—How can I know how much nitrogen to eat from cheese, eggs, beans, peas, lentils, and milk in order to keep healthy?

H. K.

A.—Nobody knows how much nitrogen to eat and nobody needs to know provided that his foods are composed according to the dictates of his appetite instead of those of the false standards so frequently employed.

The most important method of obtaining all the nitrogen you need is by insisting that your foods be unprocessed, that is, whole and unrefined.

Q.—Do the popular brands of condensed or canned soups contain any nutrient or are they made from denatured foodstuffs?

A.—With the exception of the rice ordinarily used by the manufacturers of canned and condensed soups the other materials are, as a rule, natural and wholesome.

Much better soup can be made where rice is used from the natural brown grain, but the soup manufacturers have not yet availed themselves of this fact, in consequence whereof they continue to use the polished or denatured product.

Canned soups, which are prepared under reputable brands, are usually appetizing, and we have never seen any of them that are harmful. The heavier soups contain considerable nourishment of a highly nature. On the whole, therefore, they are more of a food adjunct of luxury than a food.

Q.—How valuable in nourishment is the raisin?

N. P.

A.—The raisin, strangely enough, is almost a complete food, although its deficiency in protein might make it unsuitable for a food faddist to attempt to live on it exclusively. It is rich in all the organic mineral salts required by the body.

Bicycle riders entered in endurance races in France have frequently carried a sack of raisins with them. They chew on these raisins as constantly as some of our American men chew on tobacco. The result, as far as the bicycle rider is concerned, is an increase in stamina and endurance.

Raisins cooked with breakfast cereals, bread, biscuits, etc., or simply steamed and served as a fruit dish or eaten raw make a valuable addition to the diet of the child or adult.

Knockout Drops.

Am a traveling salesman, was in Kansas in a hotel and drank two bottles of beer with a fellow sergeant. Hardly had finished the last glass when I got dizzy and gradually became unconscious. It took several days before I was normal again. A man told me I was drugged with chloral. Now I would like to know if you can see and taste the drug given in liquids. How much does it take to make one helpless? How is it generally given? —S. C. H.

What antidote will it harmless after what happened to me? What would happen to have taken it? I would like to be on my guard hereafter.

M. L. S.

Of course, chloral hydrate has a very pronounced taste, but one might not notice the taste when drinking.

Since I cannot see how it would protect you to know the amount that might be given in such manner, I prefer not to offer information of that sort.

It is not improbable that your sudden dizziness and unconsciousness was produced by chloral. Yet it may have been a coincidence, a result of some constitutional ailment.

If you desire more detailed information you may obtain it from your family physician. The subject scarcely falls within my field.

G. O.

A while ago you mentioned in one of your interesting articles that Salol, administered in 15 grain doses, twice a day, had proved beneficial for treatment of goitre. I have a slight goitre and purchased a number of tablets and began taking a treatment for heart trouble due to general run down condition. Do you think Salol would have an injurious effect on the heart in such a case?

MRS. T. C. N.

The dose mentioned in the article was that which the German physician quoted suggested.

For goitre of average weight, 15 grains of Salol twice a day is not too much. However, if it should prove in any way irritating to the kidneys—back aching, cloudy or dark colored urine—the dose should be omitted for a few days.

Salol is no cure for goitre. The article quoted the German physician, who believed that autoxidation of intestinal organ is a factor, and Salol is a chemical combination of carbolic and salicylic acids) is as good as any antiseptic in the intestine. You might accomplish more by becoming a vegetarian.

DIRTY MONEY.

There is a good deal of complaint
about the condition of paper money.
It is remarked that the bills are unusually dirty and a possible menace to health. Certainly there are some of us who feel that fresh, clean notes are less common than they used to be, though just as much currency may have passed through our hands.

To cleanly people, a soiled bank-note, bearing the accusations of a thousand hands, has its unpleasant suggestions, notwithstanding its perfectly good purchasing power. One feels doubtfully rich with a little roll of new notes, even if they are of the smallest denomination.

People who like clean money have one recourse always open. That is to cultivate the use of gold. To this the objection is that the shiny coins are easily lost. Also they are occasionally mistaken for bright new Lincoln cents, or in the dark for nickels.

Yet the people of Europe use gold very freely and like it. They leave from youth to carry it in separate purse, and probably do not lose as much of it as our careless people.
The yellow coins have a most musical jingle. One feels like a lord with a small number of them in his pocket.

But the use of paper notes has become an ingrained habit of our people. That being so, the government should keep them clean. It seems rather absurd to spend millions in health department work, while permitting dirty and soiled carrying bills to circulate freely as they do. Banks and stores that make a practice of giving out as much clean money as possible make themselves popular among people who dislike dirt.

SCHOOLS BEGIN.

Today marks the opening of the school year in Janesville. It is one of the epochs in the life of the younger generation this passing from one grade to another, going from the ward schools to the high school. Each year brings more perplexing problems for the students to solve, each new term of school develops new conditions that have not hitherto been considered. It means much to the young people and the parents should not fail to realize this fact.

We want our boys and girls equipped with the best possible means to earn their own way in the world when they leave school. Many can not complete their school course and must enter the life of toil immediately.
But those who are fortunate enough to continue their school work, to equip themselves for the life work with proper training and study, should not fail to avail themselves of the opportunity.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" is a saying that is trite and true, but too little work and too much play will spoil the best of boys and girls. The new school year brings new thoughts and responsibilities to the parents. It is not sufficient that they send their children to school, but they must look to their moral equipment.

The teacher can work wonders in educational lines. Can even develop thoughts in a child hitherto believed dull, but the secret of this is that they have the backing of the parents. The teachers can take care of the mental advancement but it is up to the parents to look after the physical and moral side of the child.

This can not be done by leaving the child to itself. It can not be accomplished by indifference to the friends and happenings that occur in daily life in the life of the growing boy and girl. The parent should see that these acquaintances are such that should be encouraged or stopped at once. They should investigate what the boy or girl does with their leisure time. If wasteful and leading to some traits that will lead to no good results they should be prevented—by radical means if necessary.

The teacher can take care of the mental development, but the parents must look to the moral and physical.
They must see that their children are sent to the school room each morning with minds fresh and clean, not worn out by social enjoyment, moving picture shows of an exciting character or other dissipation. The parents and school teachers can work together, but there must be accord in their work.

PRIMARY ELECTION.
If you did not vote today do not contemplate voting—and yet insist you are an American citizen and have a right to criticize the government, you have lost that right. The true citizen votes when matters of importance come up, such as the selection of a candidate for the United States Senate and for governor, and members of the state and legislative and county tickets. The man who is always ready to criticize always fails to vote. If you have not voted yet, hurry up and do so before it is too late.

END NOT YET.

President Wilson has signed that eight hour bill—passed for political purposes—but the end is not yet.
Will the people permit a meager handful of working men of the country, the best paid class of workers by the way in the country, to throttle the whole industrial world, paralyze business, just so an aspiring president can be re-elected? The question seems useless in view of the fact that the law now enacted is palpably in the interest of class against mass and enacted under pressure without due consideration.

NO COMMENT.

"Extract from a Baccalaureate sermon of June 13, 1866, by Professor Woodrow Wilson," says an eastern exchange:

"You know what the usual standard of the employee is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages. Labor is standardized by the trade union, and this is the standard to which it is meant to conform. No one is suffered to do more than the average workman can do. In some trades and handicrafts no one is suffered to do more than the least skillful of his fellows can do within the hours allotted to a day's labor, and no one can work out of hours at all or volunteer anything beyond the minimum."

"I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. It is so unprofitable to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth his while to attempt anything at all. He had better stop altogether than operate at an inevitable and invariable loss. The labor of America is rapidly becoming unprofitable under its present regulation by those who have determined to reduce it to a minimum. Our economic supremacy may be lost, because the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants."

"Extract from a letter of Woodrow Wilson dated January 12, 1909, in reply to an invitation to speak at a banquet of anti-strike and anti-boycott
advocates:

"I am a fierce partisan of the open shop and of everything that makes for individual liberty, and I should like to contribute anything that might be possible for me to contribute to the clarification of thinking and the formation of right purposes in matters of this kind."

"At a dinner in the Waldorf hotel on March 18, 1907, Dr. Woodrow Wilson spoke as follows:

"We speak exclusively of the capitalistic class. There is another as formidable an enemy to equality and freedom of opportunity as it is, and that is the class formed by the labor organizations and leaders of the country."

IT IS TO EAT.

I have a dainty manicure;
We are the best of friends—
I call her Destiny because,
She always shapes our ends.

The Monday after Terence O'Dee had made four million dollars by turning his bottling establishment into a munitions factory, he called his friends together and spoke to them:
"Friends, we are about to satisfy our lifelong ambition. We are going to dine in one of them restaurants where the bill of fare is entirely in French."

And he put on his new checkered suit and Regine arrayed herself in her gladdest, and they fled themselves to the Palatial Cafe Slattery and were shown to a table by Monsieur Slattery himself.

"I'll order a lot," said O'Dee, for they were both hungry, not having eaten since lunch, and it was then almost six. And he took out his fountain pen and checked off the following items on the menu: An amaretto bouguet, an omelet, a chevreau,
a filet de boeuf a la Soubise, Nu-ages sales, Peaux d'autruche, Bottines rouges, and Coquilles de chats.

"That ought to be some feed," he observed. Three quarters of an hour later the waiter set before them boiled potatoes, mashed potatoes, fritzed potatoes, fried potatoes, sun-dried potatoes, wretched potatoes, and scalloped potatoes. And Terence O'Dee and his wife Regine rose grandly, swayed on the Cafe Slattery and took their ride to Ambrose Mouquin's village, where they had a fine time with thirty cents' worth of corn beef and cabbage.

RAIN BOOSTS PRODUCTION OF MILK IN GREEN COUNTY.

Official to the Gazette

Monroe, Wis., Sept. 5.—The shower of early Monday morning has been of great benefit to the farmers of Green county. Already the pastures are showing an improvement, and within a few days a liberal increase in the milk production is expected. The dry weather of July cut the milk supply of this section practically in two. The loss is estimated at $1,125 daily to the farmers of Green county. However, it is expected with a revival of the pastures this loss will be cut down materially. The corn crop in this section is far ahead of last year, and has shown little effects of the dry weather. Already the farmers are cutting fodder and filling their silos for winter feed.

JEFFRIS, HERALDED AS WINNER, CLOSES STRENUOUS BATTLE

"Mac" Home Today to Vote and Rest Up After Six Addresses on Final Day of Campaign.

Carrying the fight to his opponent to the last minute, Malcolm G. Jeffris closed one of the most remarkable campaigns ever made in Wisconsin, in Platteville, Monday night.

When the republican candidate for United States senator said his last word to 250 cheering Jeffris followers at eleven o'clock Monday night, he had addressed over 1,500,000 2,000 voters at six meetings on the last day of the campaign. He had talked twelve hours with hurried automobile trips between speeches, his son Rufus, acting as chauffeur. He ate his meals at lunch counters. In spite of strenuous efforts to keep every engagement, he missed one meeting, to the disappointment of Jeffris men at Farmington. Bad roads was the cause of delay after leaving Dodgeville, and he was obliged to go to Lancaster, and then on to Platteville.

Makes Six Speeches.

Mr. Jeffris left Madison early Monday morning, accompanied by Frank L. Gilbert, and made his first speech at 8:30 a.m. The next stop was Barneveld, and nearly as many voters were awaiting him there. More than 200 heard him at Ridgeway, and at one o'clock he spoke to 500 at Dodgeville, the home of the Dodgeville Chronicle, a former La Follette newspaper, which has fought as hard for Jeffris in this campaign as it did for La Follette for three years.

At two o'clock the candidate spoke at Lancaster to more than 400 voters, and his meeting at Platteville, while not so large in numbers, was just as enthusiastic.

Predictions were being made here last night that Mr. Jeffris would carry Iowa, Grant, Lafayette, counties, former La Follette strongholds.

Campaigner is Remarkable.

Mr. Jeffris returned home this morning to vote and then will rest from his long campaign. He has spoken in nearly every county in the state. His campaign has been remarkable in that he started a right outsider and has come to be considered as a winner in many sections of the state.

For the first time in many years, since he was first elected governor, Mr. La Follette went to the polls an uncertain quantity with those who know the facts undecided as to the winner. In spite of extravagant claims from the La Follette men that the only man in the state who is winning them, it is generally conceded that Mr. La Follette will need every vote he can get to win.

All over the state the Jeffris men have made arrangements to get out their vote. In many counties meetings have been held within the last few days expressly to plan the work on Tuesday, and this is expected to produce results.

Milwaukee County Key.

Jeffris managers and workers are predicting that their candidate will carry Brown, Dorr, Keweenaw, Iowa, Grant, Lafayette, Marinette, Outagamie, Walworth, Rock, Marathon and Manitowoc counties, and claim that Mr. La Follette will have a close race in many others.

It is generally conceded that the result will be told by the vote of Milwaukee county. Both the Jeffris and La Follette managers claim that country.

TOLL LINE CONDUITS

ON FRANKLIN STREET

Wisconsin Bell Starts Excavation to Place Wires Beneath Surface of Ground.

Work for the installation of underground line conduits to carry the toll lines of the Wisconsin Telephone company on South Franklin street will start this morning. A small force of men began the excavating.

Informally the telephone company has placed a proposition before the city for a joint ownership and placing of the conduits on Milwaukee street from Franklin to the police station.

Police and fire alarm system wires eventually will be placed under ground here and with this idea in view the company has invited the city to consider the advisability of such a move.

LADIES' GOLF TOURNEY TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY NEXT

On Friday next the ladies' golf tourney will be held at the Country club. Luncheon will be served at one o'clock, followed by the game. Through some error the impression has been given the kitchen is closed for the rest of the day. However, the steward will be able to furnish meals for the rest of the season, the renovation of the club kitchen having passed the stage where it will interfere with the culinary department.

Picturesque Rumanian Peasants Described in Geographic Bulletin

Romanian Peasant—Two Col Tralles Washington, D. C., Sept. 5.—A vivid picture of the Romanian peasant, whose country has been drawn into the destructive vortex of the European war after many months of vacillation, is presented in a communication to the National Geographic Society from the Howard Gore. The society today issued a part of Mr. Gore's article as a war geography bulletin which says:

A Romanian village looks its best in the spring, when nature awakens from the sleep of winter; is green and fresh. At Easter the cottages have been whitewashed and the doors and window frames freshly painted in bright colors. The thatched roof has been put in order, and in its shade the cottage calls to mind the blackwood country girls with their glistening silken multi-colored beads around their necks.

The Romanian peasant women one meets by the roadside are the fairest among their Balkan neighbors, and this natural gift is most apparent under conditions best calculated for its preservation. Their dress is simple and elegant, the foundation is a sort of shift reaching to the ankle, the upper part embroidered with colored cotton, usually red or black. Over this a petticoat which in its material and detail, reflects the taste and buying power of the wearer. On the head the peasant woman wears a scarf of cotton, usually with silk stripes; if her means permit, a gold or gala occasions she puts on a brighter kerchief, ornamented with a fringe or a row of spangles. Both men and women seem partial to having their heads covered, even in the house; but it is not regarded improper to eat without removing the hat.

In no part of Europe do the peasants hold so tenaciously to their distinctive costume as in the uplands of Romania. It is, in fact, almost in national, and its undying influence was emphasized some years ago by the late dowager queen, widely known as Carmen Sylva, when she herself put on the dress.

Evening wheat is the great staple of this agricultural country, the soil is rapidly adapted to corn (maize) and would be called upon for greater crop if the demand should justify it. The ease with which corn can be harvested is making headway, however, as evidenced by the forcible interruption by Rumanian students of a play given in French by a ladies' charitable organization in Bucharest not long ago to the farm in which it is prepared for consumption. Polenta, a sort of mush, can be made of corn meal and water, and if this or energy be lacking, it will be placed on the table insufficiently cooked. Although many believe that this is the cause of the greater part of the pell-mell so common in Rumania, it is difficult to persuade the peasants to exercise greater care in the preparation of polenta or substitute for it some of the many palatable dishes that can be made from corn.

Cooking, unfortunately, is not cultivated as it should be, and the people seem to be content with simple fare and a sameness that yields but little to the seasons. Gardening is looked upon as petty farming and not worthy of the attention of a man who would be a farmer; in fact, few Roumanians have gardens, that they are called bulvari, since the greater part of the vegetables grown are in the hands of immigrant Bulgarians. The soil and climate of the country are adapted to as wide a range as can be found in our middle Atlantic states,

CHAPTER XXIV.

Bob's work as a salesman continued to be so effective that Kurtz finally offered him a salaried position. But instead of accepting, Bob made a counter-proposition that caused the little man to gasp. Briefly, it was to extend the scope of the present business by laying in a stock of extravagant, high-priced shirt and necktie materials, with Bob as partner in the new venture. Kurtz protested that he was not a haberdasher, but he was constrained to admit that Bob had the right idea of smart business, and after some discussion accepted his employee's nonchalant offer to go halves on the new venture and share in its profits. The fact that Bob had no money with which to carry through his part of the deal troubled that youth not in the least—Kurtz' credit was ample. Bob's theory of securing the Fifth Avenue trade was to double existing prices, and if this did not bring the business to double them a second time; and this theory was correct, as he demonstrated when the new department was organized.

But despite the excellent income he now began to make there was never anything left in the Wharton bank account, for Bob moved his wife to a more pretentious apartment on River-side drive, and managed to increase their expenses so as to balance his earnings very nicely. It was quite a feat to adjust a fixed outfit to a varying income so that nothing whatever should remain, and he considered it a strong proof of his capacities that he succeeded.

By Christmas the haberdashery venture had shown such a profit that he began to pile up a small bank account in spite of himself; so he bought an automobile, which served to eat up any monthly profits and guarantee a deficit under the most favorable circumstances. Being thus relieved of financial uncertainty, he laid plans to wrest from Kurtz a full partnership in the tailoring business itself.

The Whartons' new home was charming, and Bob provided his wife with every luxury. Lorelei did not regret that she was prevented from going out as much as formerly—her experience at Fennellicourt had cured her of any desire to get into her husband's social set—and unconsciously she and Bob began to develop a real home life.

As time went on and evidences of prosperity showed themselves Lorelei's family forgot some of their dislike of Bob and became more companionable. Strangely enough, too, their cost of living increased in proportion to their friendliness; but Bob never questioned any amount they asked him for, and he swelled their allowance with characteristic prodigality.

Lorelei was proud of him, as she had reason to be, but she had occasion for sorrow as well. His generosity was really big, his pagan joyousness banished shadows, but he was intensely human in his failings, and in spite of his determination to stop drinking, in spite of all his earnest promises, the old appetite periodically betrayed him.

For a month, for two months at a time, he would manfully fight his desires, then without excuse, without cause, just when he was boasting loudest of his victory, he would fail. And yet drinking did not brutalize him as it does most men: he never became disgusting; liquor intoxicated him, but less in body than in spirit. His remorse followed promptly, his chagrin was intense, and his fear of Lorelei almost ludicrous. But the girl had acquired a wider charity, a gentler patience; she grieved, she tried to help him, and his frailty endeared him to her.

Lorelei had been slow to awaken; in fact, she had not been definitely aware of its birth; but suddenly she had found it flowering in her soul, and now it flourished the more as that other interest intensified and began to dominate her.

Bob responded to all her efforts save one: she could not make him serious. On the whole, however, they were more happy than they had ever been.

One day, during the slack holiday season, Hannibal Wharton appeared at the Kurtz establishment. He appealed the elaborate surroundings with a hostile eye and stared at his son impensively.

"So! You're a seamstress now," he began, and Bob grinned. "Merkle told me you repaid his loan and had an automobile."

"That's true."

"Second-hand car?"

"No."

"How much do you owe?"

"Nothing, except for stock."

"Stock! What do you mean?"

"Kurtz and I are partners in one end of this business."

"'Til he's damned!" breathed Mr. Wharton. Then he inquired curiously,

"Do you like this work?"

"It's not what I prefer, still there is a margin of profit."

"Huh! I should think so, at ninety dollars a suit. Well, this town is full of fools."

Bob agreed. "But we dress 'em better than they do in Pittsburgh."

After a moment's consideration Hannibal said slowly: "Mother's at the Waldorf: she wants to see you. You've just about broken her heart, Bob."

"We're not going out much, but perhaps we could call on her—"

"'We!' I said she wants to see you."

"And not my wife?"

"Certainly not. Neither do I. You don't seem to understand—"

Bob answered smoothly: "Certainly I understand: you think ninety dollars is too much for a suit. Perhaps I can show you something in scars of an exclusive design?"

"Don't be funny!" growled his father.

"Really, dad, you'd better go. That suit of yours is a sight. Somebody may think we made it for you."

Mr. Wharton remained silent for a moment. "The situation is impossible,

CHAPTER XXV.

Bob had seldom been conscious of a deliberate effort to please himself, for to want a thing had always meant to have it almost before the desire had been recognized. The gratification of his impulses had become a sort of second nature to him, and one day, feeling that he owed a debt of friendliness to the world, he was impelled to liquidate it.

He did struggle half-heartedly against his first drink, but after he had taken it and after other drinks had gone the way of the first, he met a number of people whom he liked and to whom he was inspired to show his liking, and, strange to say, the more he drank the more of such friends he discovered. By late afternoon he was in a fantastically jubilant mood, and, seizing Kurtz, he bore him across to Delmonico's.

Now, Kurtz was worldly and therefore tolerant. He had grown to like and to understand his young associate very well indeed, and something about Bob's riotous disposition to gladness awoke a response in the little tailor.

It was that expansive and expensive hour of the afternoon when business worries are dropped and before social cares are shouldered. It was cocktail time along the avenue, the hour when sprees are born and engagements broken, and as it lengthened Wharton celebrated it as in days gone by. His last regret had vanished; he was having a splendid time, when a page called to a telephone booth.

Adoree's voice greeted him; she was speaking from his own home, and her first words almost sobered him. Something was wrong; Bob was needed quickly: Lorelei was asking for him. For more than an hour they had been vainly trying to locate him. They had succeeded in reaching the doctor, and he was there—with a nurse. Adoree's voice broke—Lorelei was frightened and so was the speaker. Bob had better waste no time.

When Bob lurched out of the booth he was white; the noisy group he had left rose in alarm at sight of his stricken face. His legs led him a crooked course out of the cafe, bringing him into collision with chairs and tables and causing him to realize for the first time how far he had allowed himself to go. In a shaking voice he called for a taxicab, meanwhile allowing the raw air of the street to cool his head.

The terror of the unknown was upon him. But regrets were unavailing. "Something had gone wrong, and Lorelei needed him. She was calling for him and he was drunk. He would reel up to her bed of pain with bleared eyes, with poisoned lips. How could he kiss her? How could he explain?"

The cab swung into the curb, and he scrambled out, then stumbled blindly up the steps and into the building where he lived.

Adoree met him at his own door. Wharton's impression was vague; he saw little more than the tragic widening of the girl's eyes as she recognized his condition.

"Am I as bad as that?" he stammered. "Do you think she'll notice it?"

"Oh, Bob!" Adoree cried, in a stricken voice. "How could you—at this time?"

"You said she wanted me. I couldn't take time—"

"Yes! She has been calling for you, but I'm sorry I found you."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Bob responded to all her efforts save one: she could not make him serious. On the whole, however, they were more happy than they had ever been.

One day, during the slack holiday season, Hannibal Wharton appeared at the Kurtz establishment. He appealed the elaborate surroundings with a hostile eye and stared at his son impensively.

"So! You're a seamstress now," he began, and Bob grinned. "Merkle told me you repaid his loan and had an automobile."

"That's true."

"Second-hand car?"

"No."

"How much do you owe?"

"Nothing, except for stock."

"Stock! What do you mean?"

"Kurtz and I are partners in one end of this business."

"'Til he's damned!" breathed Mr. Wharton. Then he inquired curiously,

"Do you like this work?"

"It's not what I prefer, still there is a margin of profit."

"Huh! I should think so, at ninety dollars a suit. Well, this town is full of fools."

Bob agreed. "But we dress 'em better than they do in Pittsburgh."

After a moment's consideration Hannibal said slowly: "Mother's at the Waldorf: she wants to see you. You've just about broken her heart, Bob."

"We're not going out much, but perhaps we could call on her—"

"'We!' I said she wants to see you."

"And not my wife?"

"Certainly not. Neither do I. You don't seem to understand—"

Bob had seldom been conscious of a deliberate effort to please himself, for to want a thing had always meant to have it almost before the desire had been recognized. The gratification of his impulses had become a sort of second nature to him, and one day, feeling that he owed a debt of friendliness to the world, he was impelled to liquidate it.

YOUTH TO BE SERVED; VETERANS IN MAJORS TO PASS THIS YEAR

Many Old Players to Be Dropped for Younger Blood to Open Next Season.

New York, Sept. 5.—New faces probably will be seen in many places held down for years by recognized stars in baseball next season. Young blood is going into the major leagues, and there is nothing so true as the old saying that youth must be served.

There are a number of brilliant young bats playing outside on the boundaries in league parks, and a great many of these, together with new ones dug up in the bushes, doubtless will be regulars when the bell rings for another season to start.

Among the most brilliant of the old heads who seem destined to be the last infelder, probably the greatest second baseman who ever played while he has won side is Jim Lajoie. The veteran has played a great fielding game and has been hitting well this year, also has announced his intention of retiring from the game at the close of the 1916 season.

Sam Crawford, still dangerous as a batter, is showing up, and it is probable he will be put on the side by Hugh Jennings. Oscar Stanze is another of the Tigers who will likely enter the call of the minors.

Clyde Milan hasn't been going well for the Senators, and while there is little likelihood that he will get out of the American League, it is anticipated as tact in the bad Johnson circuit that Clyde will experience a change of scenery.

Tommy Hough and Duffy Lewis have not been doing well, but it is unreasonable to suppose these two players will be dropped from the Red Sox.

However, Larry Gardner, the veteran third baseman of the Boston club, may have some trouble in holding his job, for in Fred Merkle, the New Sox are getting an infilder of considerable class. George Cady already is surging weightily.

Chuck Gaudin, after a brief season with the Indians, may be sent to pasture now.

The Boston fans are becoming disgusted with the tactics of Johnny Evers, captain of the Braves, and it is hardly probable that the Harry Trotter will be among those dropped in the Braves' line-up next spring. Also Manager Stallings is more or less disgusted with the showing of his cut-downs.

The Cub fans and Joe Tinker seem to have placed the skids under Heine Zimmerman, who, in spite of his greatness as a ball player, seems intent on doing mainly as he pleases.

Curtis Cravens, who has played his last game with the Phillies, for whom he has been unable to bat out much this year with his bone-busting blows.

John McGraw will probably clean house wholesale. He is said to be ready to drop the axe on the necks of Larry Doyle, Fred Merkle, Honus Wagner and one or two others.

YALE GRIDIRON MEN
START PRACTICE TODAY;
NO CAMPS THIS YEAR

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 5.—Yale's gridiron squad got down to practice today, with the arrival of Coach Tom Jones from Exeter, where he has been spending the summer. One hundred and twenty-five men have been ordered to report by Captain "Cupid" Black Jones, who has been at Exeter for several years, is getting into the big school games as coach for the first time. He has been a resident assistant for the Yale team for several years, but never had taken his part in the direction of the team.

The training table this year will be of Yale. Captain Black having decided that taking the men to a summer camp has worked no good for the athletes.

This year's squad is the largest which ever turned out for an opening day.

The fact that Yale's battery was mobilized when the regulars were sent out to the national guard does not effect the team, for a recent ruling by the war department allows college men to leave at the opening of school.

FORT ARBITRATORS AID THE HOME BOYS DEFEAT CARDINALS

Umpires Give Jamesville Crew Bitter End of Series of Decisions Which Result in Defeat.

The Jamesville Cardinals have had enough time beating nine men teams but when it comes to aggregations having eleven it is entirely out of the question. That's why the Cards dropped their Labor Day matinee exhibition to the Fort Atkinson team of the Central State league. The score was 5-5.

The home boys got away with a three run lead in the first. Sam Lafferty of Beloit Fairy fame was hurling for Caldwell's crew, and from all indications Sun is slipping fast. The Fort boys batted him quite freely and where they fell down in hits off Sam he had a man with an umpire's cap who rolled around in short right, center and left field helped them out in getting on the bases.

He was the bummet excuse of a base runner that ever had the sun in his eyes. He stayed off a Card rally in the seventh that had brought the score to a tie at 4 and 4 and which but for the rank decision at first, would have meant victory for the Cardinals.

In the Fort's half of the seventh they drew two singles and a double off Lafferty and secured two runs. The Cards fought hard and it was not until the ninth with two out and two on that an opportunity offered to sew up the game. Poor judgment, after one run had been scored, ended the day with the Fort winner by a single tally.

BROWNS BOW TWICE TO ROWLAND'S CREW

White Hose Leave Little Opportunity for St. Louis to Take Flag After Monday's Games.

The St. Louis Browns yesterday bowed twice in defeat to the White Sox and surrendered whatever chance they had of winning the pennant—in the minds of many of their supporters.

The Sox triumphed 3 to 2 in the first contest and repeated 2 to 1.

Claude Williams was the hero of the first battle, a game witnessed by 25,000 fans. It was his pitching that held the Browns safely and it was his clutching that gave the Sox the runs necessary to victory.

In the second game Joe Benz allowed but three hits and whinged ten batsmen.

Detroit Climbs.

The Tigers made it three in a row by trouncing the Indians again Monday afternoon, 11 to 8, at the same time gaining a full game on the Red Sox who dropped the afternoon Labor Day bill with the Yanks. Jenkins' crew capped the morning session 7 to 5. Detroit landed on Moran in the sixth and he was chased to the dugout.

He came to St. Louis as a shortstop, but Manager Huggins has used him in every position on the infield.

The only pitcher in the National League who seems to know his weakness is Mayer of Philadelphia, who recently caused him to strike out three times in one game.

CHEESY SMELL IN VICTORY OF WELSH

Decision Far From Meeting Popular Favor—Chicago Lad, Sport Writers Declare, Is Winner.

Freddie Welsh, at Colorado Springs, Colo., yesterday was given the referee's decision, but press association and big newspaper writers are almost unanimous that the battle should have been called at least a draw. Some claim that Welsh was defeated by the Chicago boy.

That the decision was unpopular was evidenced by the riot which followed between Billy Roche's crew, who were holding Welsh's right hand at the close.

Roche, and the home boys, seek shelter under the ring. When he left the arena an attempt to mob him was made, and in the fight one man flourished a revolver.

In less than eight minutes Johnny Kubane spiced the laces of George Chaney for the world's featherweight championship at Cedar Point, Ohio.

A terrific right hook to Chaney's jaw settled the battle near the end of the third round.

Battling Levinsky aspirant for the crown held by J. Willard, mauled George Greek Brown for ten rounds in an East Chicago ring, and easily took the decision over the Mayo. Levinsky showed himself to be the better fighter from start to finish and in only one round did Brown have a good.

The entire Wisconsin boxing commission saw Matty McCue of Racine and Morris Flynn of Chicago, at the former place, go ten rounds with the decision in favor of the home lad.

HORNBY OF CARDS AFTER BAT HONORS

St. Louis Infielder Pushing Daubert for Honors in National League Race.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 5.—Rogers Hornby, infielder for the St. Louis Nationals who is playing his first season in the major, is putting up a fine figure in batting honors against such well known hitters as Daubert of Brooklyn, Wagner of Pittsburgh, Robertson of New York and many others of well known ability.

Hornby, when batting, stands well away from the plate, in a crouching position, and holds his bat at the extreme end. He has proved to be a tower of strength to his team, not only in batting but in defensive play as well.

He came to St. Louis as a shortstop, but Manager Huggins has used him in every position on the infield.

The only pitcher in the National League who seems to know his weakness is Mayer of Philadelphia, who recently caused him to strike out three times in one game.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS OPPOSE THIS INDOOR SPORT

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 5.—A law forbidding hotels to place in every lobby

a complete and specific schedule of prices of rooms is the air of a campaign started today by members of the United Commercial Travelers.

Douglas Barnes, leader of the campaign, says: "The charging of higher prices to arrivals late at night is nothing less than the old road agents specialty reduced to the fine of an indoor sport."

Manager Clark Griffith is quoted as saying he has tried out the idea of shifting right-handed and left-handbatters to match pitching and that there is no merit in it. Hereafter his brace of hitters from the off-side will stay in the game, whether south-wards or otherwise as opposing them in the box. Somebody is unkind enough to say that a batter in a Washington uniform can't hit anyway, so it makes little difference.
